And God, the Father of the universe, who is the perfect intelligence, is the truth. And the Word, being His Son, came to us, having put on flesh, revealing both Himself and the Father, giving to us in Himself resurrection from the dead, and eternal life afterwards. And this is Jesus Christ, our Savior and Lord. He, therefore, is Himself both the faith and the proof of Himself and of all things. Wherefore those who follow Him, and know Him, having faith in Him as their proof, shall rest in Him. – St. Justin Martyr

We invite all who believe in the true presence of Christ in the Holy Eucharist to partake. It is our practice to distribute the Holy Eucharist by intinction. The Body and Blood of Christ are placed on the tongue, never in the hand.

What's next.

Jesus said to them, “The children of this age marry and remarry; but those who are deemed worthy to attain to the coming age and to the resurrection of the dead neither marry nor are given in marriage. They can no longer die, for they are like angels; and they are the children of God because they are the ones who will rise.

This week and next bring to an end the liturgical season of Ordinary Time. With these weeks we begin our expectation of the end times and Jesus’ return as our Lord and King. Today’s questions from the Sadducees get to the question of what happens after death and the essential truths of God’s kingdom.

The Roman historian of Jewish matters, Josephus, identified the Sadducees as being upper crust socially and economically. They had a great deal of political, social, and religious power. They believed that the soul was not immortal; that there was no afterlife, and that there were no rewards or penalties after death. They specifically rejected the resurrection of the dead.

It is ironic; the upper one percent denied any idea of hope or reward in the life to come. It sounds like something we might hear in this day and age. If you were the working poor, if you had nothing, you would receive nothing regardless of how faithful you might have been. Again, there is a distinct parallel to our present age. The rich Sadducees had no worries. They saw life as something they could enjoy to the fullest while the rest of the world suffered in despair.

Jesus came to set aside all such notions. He did not just attempt to set them aside. He destroyed this lack of hope with the authority and power of God.

If, like the Sadducees, our concern is about our power in this life and projecting that power into eternal life we fail to understand the purpose of the Kingdom of heaven. We fail to see essential hope that exists in God’s kingdom.

God’s kingdom is defined by life, not death. It transcends our senses and time. God’s kingdom – to which we are made heirs through Jesus – ends the base and immoral systems of domination and control that mar this life. God’s kingdom offers true rewards based on faith as well as our spiritual growth, loyalty of God’s way, and righteous living. God’s kingdom is limitless and eternal – our awaited home.

Hope does not regard today’s riches or defeats, power of lack thereof. As God’s children His rewards await us and we will enjoy them eternally. There will be many poor and lonely who will rule in God’s kingdom. The lordly and mighty men and women who ruled over institutions and nations and who, if they are lucky enough to even enter into the Kingdom of God, may get an apartment. This is what is next.

Jesus said to her, “I am the resurrection and the life. Whoever believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live”

Nine Days of Holy Masses and Novenas

As Election Day approaches we are given an opportunity to pray for our country in a special way. We began a series of daily Holy Masses with a Novena to St. Jude offered for the intention of our nation and the upcoming election last Sunday. Please join us on Monday (the Commemoration of St. Willibrord of Utrecht) and on Tuesday, Election Day, at 8am

Your Vote

As Christ followers we are not bound to any ideology, party or even form of government. We are citizens of God’s kingdom. During these next few days of political tension and conflict let us practice forgiveness and remember where our true home is. Let us set forth to cast our votes in conformity with the rules of God and His Holy Church. Certainly the choice is always ours – but we err grievously when we fail to put God and His laws of life in charge of our choices.

Free Smoke Detectors

On Saturday, November 12, the American Red Cross will be installing free smoke alarms and providing fire safety education for families in the Schenectady area. To arrange for installation of these free smoke detectors please contact the Red Cross to set up an appointment at (518) 694-5121 or visit <http://www.redcross.org/local/new-york/eastern-new-york/homefires>.

Saint Notes

This week we commemorate St. Willibrord of Utrecht. He was consecrated Bishop of Utrecht (in today’s Holland) in 696. He was a missionary to the people of that region bringing the hope we too find in Jesus. It is through St. Willibrord that our Church is linked to the Apostles of Jesus.

SOCL Classes

Parents are reminded that when they had their child baptized, they vowed to have the child educated in the Christian Faith. All youth of the parish should be enrolled and attend SOCL every Sunday.
